David finally got his life together, after being drafted in the U.S. Army in April 1968, and going to Vietnam 1969-1970 for a year.

David married Margaret Patricia Struthers (Feb 17 1969 in Elkton MD), while on weekend pass from basic training, from Fort Jackson, SC. David Boje had extended for a year to get military training that never happened. He became a company clerk, after teaching himself to type, at Company W, Fort Lee Virginia. Daughter Renee was born while he was in Vietnam. First time he saw Renee was on R&R from Vietnam in Hawaii.

Above photo shows David in golf shop in Saigon, Vietnam. First half of tour he was company clerk at USAHAC, Special Services, Quartermasters. He did payroll, reports and assignments for 15 units. Second half of tour after promoted to Sergeant, and refusing to reenlist, he became the golf pro. Ironic, he had never played golf in his life. Yet, he had time to read, and read up on it, and delighted in giving general's advice on their hook and slice; no, they never caught on. He knew then he could teach.

David got veteran benefits paid his way through his Ph.D.; that does not happen to vets anymore. He graduated 1st in his class from Burlington College, and then 1st again from Rider College (actually tied with a girl in the evening program). He then went to University of Illinois for his Masters and his Ph.D. That is where son Jason David Boje was born (May 27 1976 in Champaign IL).

David, Margaret and their daughter Renee (born Staten Island NY on Oct 2, 1969) and son Jason had moved when David got his first teaching job, at UCLA. The marriage broke up after 12 years, and they split. Margaret took the children and moved back to NY with her parents, and David stayed on alone in Los Angeles. After a year, David got a phone call from Margaret, saying she was born again and wanted to live in submission to her husband. David flew to NY, a church took up a collection, and the entire family moved back to Los Angeles. During the split David had a girlfriend (Enika), who had to be moved out of the apartment she shared with David. It was not a pleasant scene. That settled, the reunited family got immersed in a cultish church. Another son was born. David and Margaret's son Raymond Mathew Boje was born (Jul 24 1982) in Los Angeles, CA. Raymond. lives with his mom on Staten Island.

One day the pastor calls David into the office and tells him God had spoken to him, and that “David, you and your family are to leave the church, never speak to anyone again in the church and just say nothing about it to anyone, ever.” Turns out the pastor and his wife had their fingers in the church building fund; that is where their fancy clothes came from and what they also did with their extra collections. The family shattered. David become more workaholic than ever.

David left the born again movement, and returned to his Catholic roots. He got a divorce from Margaret, and began to rebuild. He decided to heed the advice from brother Kevin, that older you get more likely you will turn to alcohol, especially when going through divorce. So David stopped his social drinking.

On Tues May 17 2005, David Boje went to Vancouver, Canada to meet his grandson Shiva Sun and son-in-law Chris Bennett, and to reconcile with his daughter Renee Daniel Bennett. In above photo, Shiva Sun is 3 years old.

David writes, “It was one of the most important moments in my life.” Renee looks beautiful, and grandson Shiva Sun is as adorable as can be. Renee is an activist in the Cannabis movement; she and Chris are activists; they operate a shaman medicine store where you can buy plants used in religious ceremonies from around the world. Chris Bennett has two excellent books on the relationship between cannabis and spiritual ceremonies.

Renee is fighting extradition from Canada for the 1997 event in Las Angeles. She had been arrested for cannabis growing and sale to people with cancer. During her arrest she was strip searched multiple times. This is an important test case in US, since a California law for medical marijuana is being actively challenged by federal government. She has been in Canada since 1997 and has appeared in many hears. Two feature articles appeared recently. One Renee Boje/Bennett wrote in May issue of Cannabis Magazine; the other has lots of great write up on her activist and professional photos of the family. Rneee is crusading to help an Australian woman who while in Bali, had some drug runner plant a large quantity of cannibals in her luggage; the woman is due to be executed. Renee has support for her battle against US government from Noam Chomsky and Michael Moore, and thousands of letters from many folks. She is discussed in the Whitehouse by President Bush and his staff, and a conservative Canadian politician is trying to extradite her to the US.

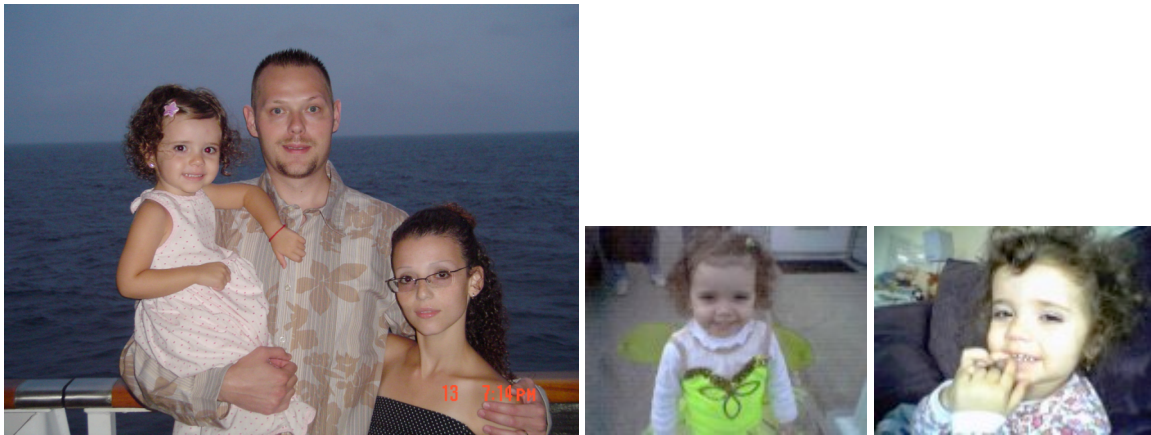

Shiva Sun liked the animals and a fishing pole with a magnet on the end to pick up the little fish.

David and Grace Ann, May, 2005

He met Grace Ann Rosile at a conference, and at a food line heard her say “if I ever date again it will be to a vegetarian, my first husband was a meat eater.” As David tells the story, he said, “I am a vegetarian” and from that moment on he was. His 2nd wife is Grace Ann Rosile (born July 1951); they were married Dec 30 1996. Grace Ann moved from her 14 year professor job in Pennsylvania and David moved from seven year job at Loyola Marymount (after doing 7 at UCLA) and they moved to New Mexico in 1996, to take a job as department head at New Mexico State University. Grace Ann finally got a tenure track at NMSU in 2002. They currently live at 4700 Dunn Drive, Las Cruces, NM 88011 (505-532-1693). They raise Arabian Stallions on a small ranch near the Organ Mountains. Both write journal articles; David has done over 50 and 7 books see <http://cbae.nmsu.edu/~dboje>
